

AN ITCHING PALM

No Cure for It. Other Forms of Itching Preferable.

There is no cure for an itching palm—the money kind. Even Pommam, the new skin discovery, cannot help it. But when it comes to eczema, the most annoying of itching skin troubles, Pommam will stop the itching at once and cure the worst cases in a few days. So with hives, rash, scabies, split toes, piles and scaly scalp, all of which are different forms of eczema, accompanied by severe itching and caused by imperfect digestion and careless diet.

Pommam comes in two-dollar jars, but fifty cents' worth will answer in curing any of the diseases mentioned. It can be had of any druggist. Tragic's make a specialty of it.

That results are immediate will be amply demonstrated overnight by the use of the experimental sample which the Emergency Laboratories, 12 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York City, will send free by mail in plain wrapper to any one who will write for it.

CHAPLAIN'S BODY VIEWED BY MANY

Funeral of Dr. J. William Jones Conducted With Impressive Ceremonies Yesterday.

Solemnity and reverence marked the funeral of Dr. J. William Jones, which took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the Second Baptist Church. Followed by an escort of the Richmond Light Infantry Blues and the Richmond Hawitzers, the procession, after the church services, moved west along Franklin Street, and the body of the Confederate chaplain was laid to rest in Hollywood beside the bodies of hundreds of his former comrades. Salutes were fired after the interment.

In the church, where the body had lain in state since early morning, the scene was a most impressive one. Delegations from Lee and Jackson Camps, from the Lee Camp Soldiers' Home, and from the United Daughters and Sons of the Confederacy attended the funeral, and the edifice was well crowded at the services, which were conducted by the Rev. Ryland Knight, of Calvary Baptist Church, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Whitely, D. D., of Richmond College, the Rev. James P. Smith, D. D., and the Rev. E. L. Grace.

The active pall-bearers were the board of deacons of Calvary Baptist Church, where Dr. Jones formerly attended services. The honorary pall-bearers were:

EUROPE RECOVERS FROM PESSIMISM

Disasters to a big navy is likely to disappear in view of the fact that overwhelming defeat awaits them if they refuse, and the country can make its voice heard. It is already apparent that eight Dreadnoughts will be the battle cry in the three or four of the pending elections.

To-day comes news of the opening of a great spontaneous national campaign, with public meetings throughout the country. These will be non-partisan, and will, no doubt, bring a tremendous response.

No government, and least of all a weak one like the present, can long hold out against such pressure as soon as it is brought to bear. Then there will be the bill to pay, and all over the quicker feeling is growing in anticipation of the heaviest burden ever indicated by the British government in modern times. Philosophical persons await it with cynical satisfaction. They hope the naval expenditure will speedily reach fabulous, impossible figures, both here and in Germany. The quicker feeling is growing in anticipation of the heaviest burden ever indicated by the British government in modern times.

WAS HE BETRAYED?

Italian Police Think Petrosino's Confederate Was in the Plot.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] PALERMO, March 20.—The police, after waiting four days, are arresting hundreds of persons connected with the Mafia, or believed to be members of the Black Hand, in the hope of believing the murderers of Lieutenant Petrosino.

They seem to have reached the conclusion that neither the Mafia nor the Black Hand had anything to do with the crime. It has been ascertained that on the day he was murdered Petrosino went to Caltanissetta, evidently intending to spend a couple of days there in searching the judicial records in the archives, as he carried a bag containing clothes.

He had an interview with the clerk in charge of the archives, who consented to let him look at the records, but Petrosino said he was going to Palermo immediately and would go back to Caltanissetta another day. He hurried back to Palermo.

The police suspect that his sudden return was due to a telegram sent to Caltanissetta by one of his confidantes, calling him back, and they are almost convinced that a trap was set by this confidante, into which Petrosino fell, as he was murdered while talking to this man after dinner on the same day.

The murderers are believed to be two noted bad characters, recently returned from America who took an active part in looting Messina after the earthquake.

The police are now striving to arrest them, as well as an accomplice who is connected with the Palermo police.

Conviction Is Doubtful.

Their arrest is said to be certain, but even then their conviction is problematical, since even admitting they are not connected with the Mafia, once they are arrested the Mafia will do its utmost to secure their acquittal, and there is no place in the world where witnesses are so easily suborned as in Palermo.

The Italian police seem to be keen to discover the real object of Petrosino's mission. Not only were the notes and papers read and studied in the House of Commons yesterday, it is regarded by the suffragettes as canceling the possibility of woman franchise being granted at this session.

The measure was introduced despite their protests. They know there is no chance of adult suffrage in England to-day, but they have demanded suffrage only on the same terms as men have it. Therefore, this bill was designed really to prevent it for the time.

Mr. Asquith, in discussing the bill, said it was well known that on the woman suffrage question the government was not of one opinion, and it had never been made a government question. He himself believed, as did most of his colleagues, in the necessity for reform in the present franchise, apart from any question of sex, as to which he wished to reaffirm what he had previously said, that the government intended introducing a measure for general electoral reform.
